sm will be considered old-fashioned, but propos of a recent banquet the question es to mind. 'Is it not a fact that there is time for levity and another time for When men sit at a well-orand table they expect to be amused and to take part in the amusement, gay banstories, music and songs are admissihe levity is a natural part of the evenhe's entertainment, but it does seem to carrying this joylal spirit quite too far sten a percentage of the banqueters entirely forgets the time-honored reverence secorded to the ministry or to those occapying a dignified position in life. To eming a dignified position in life. To her one's spiritual advisor assailed by signisms in the shape of words or song ten he stands to make an address helps a shatter one's ideals, and the perpenders are offering an insult to one of the foremost institutions.

If does seem strange that young men so have received a good education and vio have lived amid proper home influences cannot discern the difference between good fellowship and rowdyism, but if the system is to continue those of a similed bearing will be forced to remain tway from such events or else those who sot know what is due each individual not know what is due each individual eaker will be kept away.

Then again, it is rather absurd to have dignified subjects or serious speakers placed on the programme at all if the entire rendition is to be the signal for constant interruptions, vulgarisms and songs. Each a banquet is a niere farce. On the other hand, a truly Bohemian affair, where nonsense reigns and the festive cocktail takes first place, can be spoken of as being most successful simply because it is understood beforehand what is going to happen. The criticism, however, is directed to events where dignified men have been invited to address the guests and then they are ridiculed by a portion of the crowd.

The week has been filled to the brim with bridge parties. There were also some other events. THE VALUE OF CHARCOAL.

Few People Know How Useful it is in Preserving Health and Beauty.

Nearly everybody knows that charcoal is the safest and most efficient disinfectant and purifier in nature, but few realize its value when taken into the human system for the same cleansing purpose. Charcoal is a remedy that the more you take of it the better; it is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the gases and impurities always present in the stomach and intestines and carries them out of the system.

Charcoal sweetens the oreath after smoking, drinking or after eating onlong and tect in the stomach and bowels, it disin-rects the mouth and throat from the pois-on of catarth.

All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another, but probably the best charcoal and the most for the money is in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges, they are composed of the finest powdered Willow charcoal, and other harmless antiseptics in tablet form, or rather in the form of large, pleasant tasting lozenges, the charcoal being mixed with honey ith honey The daily use of these lozenges will soon

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much-improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter preach and purer blood, and the beauty of it is, that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but on the contrairy great benefit.

A Buffalo physician in speaking of the benefits of charcoal says: "I advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat: I slso believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them, they cost but twenty-five cents a box at drug stores, and although in some sense a patient preparanive cents a box at drug stores, and al-though in some scrise a patent prepara-tion, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tab-lets."
